

Starbird Family

Compiled by Bruce A. Fowler
Hartland Historical Society 2013

Dozens of resources were used for this document with much of the general information gathered from the book, "Genealogy of the Starbird/Starburd Family" by Alfred A. Starbird written in 1942. It is noted in the book that Dorothy Elliott (1872-1957) contributed the information on her family's connection to the Starbirds.

The Starbird Family has deep roots in New England dating back to about 1640. Thomas Starbird of Dover, New Hampshire is one of the first recorded Starbird settlers in the New World. Many of his descendants lived there over the next few generations including his great-great grandson, Simeon Starbird. Simeon's brother, Thomas, removed to Scarborough, Maine and his brother, John, to Harpswell, Maine while Simeon came to Hartland, Maine.

At least 4 of Simeon's children, John, Nathaniel, Samuel and Hannah Starbird, also came to Maine from Barrington, New Hampshire by 1810 and settled in North Hartland near a pond which has since been known as Starbird Pond. They and their descendants intermarried with many old Hartland clans including Stafford, Elliott, Annis, Ham, Latty, Williams, Coston, Hinton, Hart, Gould, Rowell, Littlefield and Fogg to name a few. There are numerous twins born to the Starbirds as noted.

Many of these families remained in Hartland and the surrounding areas throughout the 1800s and into the 1900s but some heeded the call of the West and settled in places like Illinois, Minnesota, Idaho, Iowa, California and Washington. Every cemetery in Hartland contains numerous members of these families who all eventually connect back to these four Hartland Starbird settlers. Many of the original family members are buried at the Starbird-Jordan Cemetery in North Hartland.

"Simeon's wife, Abigail Caverly, is the daughter of Moses Caverly and was born June 11, 1754 in Barrington, New Hampshire (just outside of Dover). She and Simeon resided a few years in Barrington, then removed in 1810 to Hartland, Maine. Simeon was a pioneer of the wilderness. They had sons John, Samuel, Nathaniel, and Simeon; and daughters, one of whom married Enoch Tuttle, one married Leathers (a blacksmith in Barrington), and another (Hannah) married Daniel Ham of Hartland. The most, if not all, of these are now dead.

We have a brief account of Simeon by our venerable kindred friend, Daniel Caverly of Barrington, who discourses substantially as follows: 'I visited several times Simeon Starbird's family after he left Barrington and settled in the East, some two hundred miles away. He with his family proceeded to a high ridge of land in the wilderness, and on this selected the numerous acres on which to erect their habitations. With a strong arm they soon cut a road to the settlement through the woods, some four or five miles from the then small village of Athens.

They erected log cabins, felled the native forest, cleared out the stumps and stones, and in due time realized and enjoyed the transcendent rewards of their own independent, frugal industry, and the sweet satisfaction and repose of honest husbandmen. I was there in 1819. The father then had already erected a framed house, but the sons and their families were still living in log cottages, crude, but warm and convenient. Benches were in fashion in the place of chairs. Their general good cheer and kind hospitalities were grateful; not soon to be forgotten.

In 1839 I again journeyed East, and again visited the plantation still under cultivation, much improved; but Simeon and Abigail (my uncle and aunt) and their sons were not there. They were all at rest, and another generation inhabited the several homesteads. Such is life in its best estate."
